

TRAINING

Within the Pharmaceutical, Biotech, R&D, Blood, Medical Device and regulated industries training is an absolute requirement in the regulations. Each organisation must be able to demonstrate the competency of its staff to deliver their roles. During regulatory inspections, training records and competency are easily inspected and very often a source of inspection findings for the FDA/MHRA.

We specialise our training in two main areas, these being;

Computerised Systems –

Providing our clients with the skills, knowledge and confidence to maintain, implement new or upgrade their computerised systems while maintain compliance.

QA Auditing – Training our clients in the wider aspects of GMP and GDP facility auditing, raw material supplier audits and Qualified Person training.

Our training courses update you of current regulations, guidance and regulatory expectations. They aim to improve your internal procedures, leverage change and to deliver more compliant operations.

In addition, effective training can deliver significant business value, by increasing the effectiveness of your staff for day to day operations and leveraging new techniques for new projects.

Courses are presented by leading experts who have a practical understanding of working in the industry. Tutors are carefully selected based not only on knowledge and experience but also their ability to communicate that knowledge in an inspiring, interesting, structured and educational way.

We offer:

- A creative approach to training
- Using tutors who are exceptional coaches and mentors
- Without the excessive use of PowerPoint slides
- Using exercises and workshops to put the learning into practice
- Giving you the facts, skills and knowledge you need to apply in your working environment

We have a very wide range of existing pharmaceutical customers, small and large, and benefit from a great deal of repeat business from existing clients. We also focus on who the audience is – offering different styles of delivery and content depending on who we are training. This has resulted in superb levels of feedback from all organisational levels.
